World Autism Awareness Day

Tuesday, April 2nd, is World Autism Awareness Day and we will, once again, be lighting it up "Blue" in recognition of people living with autism. This initiative was created by Autism Speaks in 2010, and since that time, hundreds of thousands of landmarks, buildings, homes and communities around the world have shown their support. In addition, our entire staff will be wearing Autism Awareness bracelets to help further spread the "faith, awareness and positivity" of this initiative.

Easter Festivities

On Friday, April 19th, we will be having our Easter Party from 9:30-11:30am. Our agenda for the party includes a special snack, games, art projects and plenty of festive dancing. Once those activities have concluded, the kids will need to save a bit more energy for our traditional Easter Egg Hunt!!!

Earth Day

Precious Memories Preschool of Sandy Hollow will be celebrating Earth Day on Monday, April 22nd. The children will be learning Earth Day songs along with ideas on how to keep our Earth clean. Classrooms will be creating special projects that will be displayed in the foyer area of the school. Also, keep your eyes peeled for our fun, specially themed sensory table that the children will visit throughout the day!

Boo Bear

Boo Bear and Miss Maureen will be visiting Precious Memories Preschool of Sandy Hollow from Children's Dentistry to educate the children about Oral Hygiene on Tuesday, April 23rd. They will start off by talking about the importance of teeth and knowing why we need to take care of them. Then, they will talk about brushing and flossing teeth. During this time, we will teach the children songs to sing when they brush their teeth to help make sure they brush long enough. The children will play a game to guess which foods are healthy or unhealthy for our teeth. Then everyone will get a chance to brush Boo Bear's teeth and show us what they have learned.
